Matt Clear

Social Media Director

Matt Clear is the Social Media Director of New Noise Group and also serves on its Board of Directors.

Matt is a Southern California native who has spent the majority of his 27 years fueling his passion for music. With a Bachelor's degree in Music Production and Engineering from the prestigious Berklee College of Music, Matt has cultivated a well rounded musical background ranging from musical theatre to pop and rock music, which he writes and performs as a solo artist. Matt has been recognized nationally for his abilities, with appearances on MTV's Score co-writing with pop-star Ryan Cabrera, recognition by Jessica Simpson, and the opportunity to work beside producer/engineer Aaron Sprinkle in Seattle, Washington.

As Sprinkle's studio assistant for nearly two years he has worked with heavy hitting bands like Anberlin, Emery, Aaron Gillespie, States, and former Owl City collaborator Swimming With Dolphins. With an eager determination to further his understanding of professional audio, the craft of songwriting, and the marriage between the two, Matt is constantly looking for artists to produce and for new ways to get his music to the world.
